PEOPLE OF THE COUNTRY.

Fi w of Them Seem to Have Learned Anything Noble From Nature. For the stability and righteousness our government we are accustomed to think we must pin our faith on the country people who live near to na-ture's heart, " writes Mrs. Lyman Abbott in The Ladies' Home Journal, the first of a series of "Peaceful Valley" papers, which picture life in an ideal. raral community. "But how many of them," she says, "seem to have learned anything noble from her? Her beauty does not refine them, her honesty does free handedness does not inspire them to generosity-they become narrow and sordid in the midst of grandeur and liberality. They imagine there can be nothing in life but work or play toil or rest, and they feel a contempt for those who play and rest. They have taph, they fancy heaven a place where they can 'do nothing forever and ever. This view of life makes loafers in the village as it makes them in the cities. When a different spirit has found room to grow, a new order of living prevails. Life becomes something more than a slow grinding of the mill, more cause it cannot be at will laid down. It becomes a luxury as well as a necessity. Individuals combine, not for their own advantage, but to multiply benefactions, and as strength increases by its right use, the attainment of one worthy and ambitious advantage is only

"How" Used For "That." Dr. Holmes wrote half a century ago,

"Don't, let me beg of yon-don't say 'how' for 'what," and "Please don't say 'how' for 'that' " is the wail of the sensitive reader of today. If an American, he is likely to ascribe the reigning fancy for the sin to Mr. Howells, who has taken to it with his usual ferocity, possibly because long practice on his own signature makes the adverb easier for him to write than the conjunction.

Lately the word has begun to infest the writings of English politicians, possibly as a result of association with the Irish members of parliament, for "he said how he was going' is a literal translation of the Gaelic equivalent of "he said that he was going." STORY OF A WAR SONG.

The Man Who Composed the Music for "We Are Coming, Father Abraham." The man who composed the music for Whittier's song, 'We Are Coming, Father Abraham, Three Hundred Thousand Strong," is an old and somewhat repit piano tuner, who carries on his business near Windom, Minn. His pame is A B. Irving. One day soon after Lincoln's call for 200,000 more men, Irving, then a young man, was on his way to Defiance, O., from Fort Wayne for the purpose of singing at a political and loyal meeting. He had considerable reputation as a composer and singer and the Republicans had asked him to come and help them. On the way he read the poem, which had just been published. Irving studied it, formulated a tune, hummed it and got the rhythm, and that evening at the Defiance meeting he' sang the song for the first time. When he had finished, and the last echoes had away, men mounted their chairs with wild enthusiasm, swung their hats and broke loose in cheers that rang with feeling. He sang it again and again, and they would scarcely let him

Fort Wayne, and again aroused the same enthusiasm. He wrote out the music and sent it to the publisher who had handled what he had composed, with instructions to publish it on his usual terms of royalty. It was published, and inside of a month more than 40,000 copies had been sold. In a few days the publisher failed and Irving never received a dollar for the music. -

Most Wonderful Cave In the World. The most wonderful cave in the world is in the island of Tonga, in the south Pacific. Byron called it "a chapel of the seas." It is formed in a rock that is almost surrounded by the ocean. This rock is about 60 feet high and broad ween the Duke of Orleans and the Count of Turin we publish the following article which shows the manner in which British officers settle disputes: Officers have their disagreements, of to be settled. Dueling is forbidden by son why I had my name changed. I have law as well as by modern ideas and no prejudice against the German methcommon sense. Complaints respecting od, only I prefer the French method of infractions or mess etiquette or of ungentlemanly or unsoldierly conduct may be submitted to the mess committee, the punitive powers of which are extremely farreaching. The life of an officer "sent to Coventry" by his fellows is unendurable, and his only chance is to exchange. But all this is moral sussion only, and in the end disputes are frequently settled by a resort to dirst principles— the rule of fist—while redress is sometimes obtained in ways as drastic as they are novel. A gentleman joined a crack cavalry regiment. He had no pedigree or family to recommend him. In fact, his father was a retired brewer, and by the scions of nobility among his comrades

he was rather coldly received. "Are you the son of Dash, the brewer?" inquired one of these.

"Then why didn't your father bring you up to his trade?" "Oh, well, you're the son of Lord Blank, aren't you?" Then why didn't he bring you up a The upshot of this was a rough and umble, wherein was demonstrated that in the army a plebeian is the equal of a peer-if he can box as well. Another gentleman from the ranks of trade came home one day to find all the crockery and breakable articles in his, of civilization a people has reached may rooms smashed, the same being intended by the wreckers as a delicate hint

Accordingly, after dinner, two of them received satisfaction in full, a la Corbett, in drill time, but the third proved a tougher nut to crack, and the big hearted plebeian (who, by the bye, is now a general), weakened by his exertions, was getting worsted, so another of the same social status who was an expert boxer took up the running.

It so happened that he had also carried his insulting comparisons into the mess, and as he wouldn't take advice and "drop it" his brother officers took the matter into their own hands, with the result that one cold night in February there was a hubbub within the officers' quarters, a window was presently opened, and little "Joey," clad only in his nightshirt, was handed out, seized, placed and held down in a handbarrow, wheeled off to the manure heap and there shot out, to make his way back to A pack of cards was recently sold at | bed as best he could. King Cetewayo Appreciated the Tenor Singing of "Old Dog Tray," "There is much in a name, or at least think so," said Albert Gerard-Thiers, the tenor, who once sang for old Cetewayo, king of the Zulus. Mr. Gerard. Thiers several years ago bore the Ten-tonic cognomen of Theiss and had it changed to Thiers. His fame spread, and his middle name was wedded to his surname with a hyphen, "I am more French than German," ne continued, "and my vocal method is not at all German. Mery people imagine that a German vocalist is a masourse, like other men, and they have ter of the guttural, and that is one reasinging. People who were introduced to me used to ask if I was German. As I speak French and not German, I con-cluded to change my name to Thiers. My wife is an American, but she has lived so long in Paris that she speaks French like a native and has nothing German in her appearance or manners. "Did you sing in French to King Cetewayo?" "No; I sang in English. The old Zulu was in captivity when I saw him in Africa. I was singing in Cape Colony in my boyhood days with an English opera company, and after it stranded I visited the dethroned African monarch. The English kept him guarded at a farmhouse, but allowed him privileges. I sang several operatic airs for him, but they did not please him, and in despair I tried 'Old Dog Tray.' He liked it, and when told the story he said a dog was faithful and wished me to sing it again. Then he embarrassed me exceedingly by presenting me with two of his wives. Each was more than six feet in height and black as the ace of spades. I declined his royal offer, although he declared the wives would not be missed." -New York Commercial.
